James Robinson, who now lives at Cincinnati, is probably the oldest survivor of the old-time circus. He is over eighty-two years of age and was actively engaged in the business from his boyhood up to just before the war. He says that in those days the regular charges in the south were 25 cents for whites and 37 1-2 cents for siaves. Spanish coins were plentiful and a dollar could be split up in nearly any way desired. The slaves were charged the higher price in order to, in a certain measure, restrict their patronage.

Business took me there three or four times a year until two years ago. That was a night for you! Some of the old gang had the nerve to return to town after that when practicable, of a non-commissioned officer and two privates.

The morning gun will be fired at the first note of reveille. The retreat gun will be fired at the last note of retreat. The non-commissioned officer will march the detachment to and from the piece, and the piece will be fired, sponged out and secured under his direction.

The flag will be raised and lowered by a non-commissioned officer or private of the guard. The flag will be raised at the first note of reveille, and lowered at the last note of reveille, and lowered at the last note of retreat.

The morning gun will be fired at the first inght's racket. I never did; heard there was an indictment loafing around the court house for me, and I have at found it necessary to go back. Never knew exactly what started the gang that night, except it was in the air. There may have been as lively a crowd of young men in many other towns that I have visited, but I have never found them. Versailles was always a picnic for me.

Twenty men placed their shoulders against the machine and pushed to gether. Down the hill she started, gathering speedway, and straight into the fire plunged the pride of Versailles. I tell you, it was a sight worth seeing. We sat down and cheered and swore like madmen. The townspeople who were up didn't dare to attack us. I heard afterward that the irons of the old machine were found in the ruins. "Daylight sobered us a bit. I drove to Lexington. Some of the other boys rode to near-by towns and caught trains. At any rate, the grand jury met the next day, and not a member of the engine company was in town. When some of them straggled back later they placed the blame on me. That's why I don't go to Versailles."
